Now hiring a Trauma Director

Centura Health, Colorado's largest health care provider, is offering an exciting trauma nursing leadership opportunity for a qualified individual to provide strategic and operational leadership for Centura Health's four Southern Colorado Trauma Centers (Levels II-IV). Selected candidate will champion the development and coordination of a multidisciplinary team approach to provide optimal care. This position will be based at the Level II Trauma Center at Penrose St. Francis Hospital in Colorado Springs, with oversight of one Level III and two Level IV Trauma Centers at our nearby rural facilities.

This opportunity requires a Masters Degree in Nursing or related field, with 5 years of clinical leadership experience in an acute care environment and a current Colorado Nursing License. Trauma program leadership experience strongly recommended.

Relocation assistance will be offered and you will love Colorado's exceptional lifestyle. With more than 300 days of annual sunshine, you'll have plenty of beautiful days to enjoy area attractions like nearby Pikes Peak and Garden of the Gods park, along with easy access to outdoor recreation, pro sporting events and local arts and culture. Colorado Springs is also known for having excellent schools, an affordable cost of living and friendly people.

As a mission driven, faith based and not-for-profit organization, Centura Health's 13,000 associates enjoy a deeper connection to serving patients and families while improving the preservation and wellness of the communities we serve. Our network of care spans the state with 12 hospitals, 7 senior living communities, home care and hospice services. As the state's largest private employer, we offer highly competitive compensation, phenomenal benefits and opportunities for career development.
